

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Journal of Experimental and Clinical Medicine (JECM) aims to publish high quality scientific research in the field of experimental and clinical medicine, with the goal of promoting and disseminating medical science knowledge to improve global health. Articles on clinical, laboratory and social research in medicine and other related fields that are of interest to the medical and health care profession are eligible for consideration. Examples include: translational and personalized approaches to biomedicine, metabolic diseases, cancer, and aging that employ cutting edge molecular approaches (e.g., proteomics, genomics). Applicable animal models and in vitro assays will also be considered. The JECM publishes review articles, original articles, case reports, short communications, and letters to the editor. (We do not anticipate a focus on complementary and alternative medicine practices.)

Frequency

Published bimonthly, with a total of 6 issues per year (i.e., in one volume).

Instructions to Authors
